

Poem of Many Hats

Some wear many hats,
but others,
overwhelmed by mind
and time,
inhabit many worlds.

The simulacrum
of place,
like a mariposa
in space,
tricks of words,
like flicking wings,
flap with the mystery,
of infinite rhyme.

7/26/06 ms