

Morning Walk above the City

When a soft wind
Rustles through trees
And the leaves
of bushes titter
My mind drifts
Through nameless forests.

A distant train whistle wails,
Blanketing all chaotic minutae
Calming the sentient
With its plaintiff call.

2/15/02